WorldView magazine is the quarterly publication of the National Peace Corps Association, an alumni organization for returned Peace Corps volunteers, former staff, and friends of the Peace Corps. WorldView is written for both returned and serving volunteers.

Returned volunteers carry their Peace Corps experience with them for the rest of their lives, and WorldView keeps them in touch with what's happening in the countries where they served. WorldView magazine also helps serving volunteers feel connected—even in the most remote locations—and gives them a sense of where their Peace Corps experience can take them by spotlighting the education and career opportunities available to them when they come home.

"Advertising in WorldView is a non-negotiable for us. The ads hit our target market: internationally minded individuals who are committed to making a difference in the world."

"I have kept every issue and browse through them periodically because maybe I will find a new career idea or new course study."

Along with the featured topic and timely articles, each issue of WorldView magazine includes:

Letters From... – Personal experiences and insights from Peace Corps and other humanitarians about how their communities work.

Around the NPCA – News and updates from NPCA headquarters, state and local member groups, and "Friends Of" organizations.

Profiles in Service – A spotlight on returned volunteers, the paths they've chosen, and their accomplishments. Collectively, these profiles offer a roadmap for returning volunteers on the variety of careers available to them, and the educational programs that welcome them.

PLUS – Each issue offers these popular columns and departments: The President's column, Your Turn, Book Locker, Commentary, Giving Back, and Community News.
