NPCA leadership, former PA Senator Harris Wofford and RPCV constituents met with Senator Casey in 2011.

From the Website (http://www.casey.senate.gov/):

Born and raised in Scranton, Pennsylvania, Bob Casey, 52, graduated from The College of the Holy Cross in 1982 and spent the following year teaching fifth grade and coaching eighth grade basketball in inner city Philadelphia for the Jesuit Volunteer Corps. He received his law degree from Catholic University in 1988 and entered the practice of law in Scranton.

(concerning foreign aid): I recognize that the United States has a responsibility to respond to humanitarian crises around the world. I have cosponsored legislation to aid countries in need of reliable food supplies, helped secure the safe evacuation of orphans from Haiti after the devastating earthquake, and urged foreign governments to support refugees of war torn regions.

From the Website (https://evans.house.gov/about)
Dwight grew up in North Philadelphia, one of five children. Today, he lives just blocks from Germantown High School, his alma mater. After graduating from the Community College of Philadelphia and LaSalle University, Dwight went to work as a teacher in the School District of Philadelphia, and later as a job developer for the Urban League of Philadelphia. In 1980, at the age of 26, Dwight was first elected State Representative from the 203rd Legislative District.

One of Dwight’s proudest achievements has been his work to combat hunger and increase access to quality foods in underserved communities. He was the creator of Pennsylvania’s Fresh Food Financing Initiative, linking public and private funds to expand and build grocery stores in “food deserts” across the state.

In November 2013, Dwight released his political biography, "Making Ideas Matter: My Life as a Policy Entrepreneur." Written with Pulitzer Prize-winning author William Ewenbarger, and published by the University of Pennsylvania Fels Institute of Government, the biography describes how good politicians can compromise without abandoning moral principles.

As a state legislator, Madeleine Dean has built a reputation for getting things done while always maintaining a respectful dialogue with constituents and colleagues. After the Sandy Hook shooting, Madeleine formed the PA SAFE Caucus, a bipartisan group of legislators dedicated to ending gun violence and saving lives. We need Madeleine to be our voice. After many years in the private sector, Madeleine stepped up to represent us in the state legislature and is the best candidate to serve us in Congress.

She is an attorney, professor, mother, grandmother and state legislator, representing our communities in Montgomery County since 2012. Dean is an outspoken leader who champions progressive priorities such as education, access to healthcare, and ethical government. Following the Sandy Hook shooting, she formed an active group of legislators and activists dedicated to passing legislation to end gun violence.

Growing up in a military family, Susan moved frequently throughout her childhood. But the Lehigh Valley and the 7th District, where she moved more than three decades ago, is the only place she’s ever truly called home. It’s where her two children were born and attended public schools. It’s where she’s built a well-respected and recognized legal career, including becoming the first female Solicitor of the City of Allentown where she shepherded in a new era of accountability and transparency. And it’s where she’s become a respected and outspoken community leader.

Susan joined the race for Pennsylvania’s 7th Congressional District because she shares her neighbors’ values and recognizes that, too often, our leaders in Washington do not. She believes we can grow overall economic prosperity while still caring for the vulnerable members of our community. And she knows, now more than ever, it’s working-class families that deserve a break in this economy — not big city billionaires and wealthy corporations.

When Susan is not working for her clients, she can be found spending time with her two children and dog, or cooking up masterpiece meals with delicious organic ingredients from her home garden.

Dan Meuser is a proven job creator, has served the public, and invested in his community. Now Dan is running to represent Pennsylvania’s 9th District in Congress.

Dan Meuser is running for Congress because he believes our politics today are broken. Rather than rally around our country, too many politicians on the left are more interested in scoring political points. Now, more than ever, business leaders and conservatives who know how to get things done need to step up and run for office so we have a government that works, for the people, not against them.

During his 25-year career at Conestoga Wood Specialties, Fred rose to serve as Plant Operations Manager at the company’s Beavertown facility, managing over 230 employees and a $50 million-dollar annual budget. While building his career at Conestoga, Fred started his own successful small business managing properties and serving as a general contractor.

Fred Keller has represented Snyder and Union counties in the Pennsylvania House of Representatives since 2010.

His distinguished service in the state legislature has been recognized by the American Conservative Union, Americans for Prosperity, the National Federation of Independent Business, the PA Chamber of Business and Industry, the PA Farm Bureau, fellow public officials (both Republicans and Democrats), educators, first responders, health care professionals, taxpayer advocates and many more.

Fred has consistently worked to pass timely and balanced budgets with no tax increases or general fund borrowing. As a firm believer in government that is open and accountable, Fred has built a record that is rooted in the values of his constituents.

Prior to voting for increased transparency in State Government that required state agencies to post expenses online, Fred set the example by posting his personal and office expenses online.

Guy Reschenthaler is a son of western Pennsylvania, born here and raised in the values and traditions that make our region great. Guy graduated from Penn State’s Behrend campus and completed law school at Duquesne. After law school, Guy fulfilled a lifelong dream and joined the US Navy Judge Advocate General Corps and volunteered for duty in Iraq. In Baghdad, Guy made daily trips into the Red Zone and prosecuted nearly 100 terrorists, including some of the most dangerous terrorists in the Middle East. Guy was elected to the State Senate in November 2015, winning a special election to represent the citizens of the 37th Senatorial District, which includes portions of Allegheny County and Washington County. As a state senator, Guy is a leading conservative voice in the Republican caucus. Guy is a fighter for cutting spending, lowering taxes, and eliminating job-killing regulations. Guy Reschenthaler was born to lead and called to serve. He kept our nation safe and he’ll take our values to Congress.

From the Website (www.kelly.house.gov):

Mike Kelly was born in Pittsburgh and raised in Butler, PA, where he has lived for the past 53 years. After graduating from Butler High School in 1966, Mike attended the University of Notre Dame on a football and academic scholarship. After college, Mike moved back to Butler to work at Kelly Chevrolet-Cadillac, Inc., a company founded by his father in the early 1950s. Mike took ownership of the dealership in the mid-1990s, expanding its operations to include Hyundai and KIA franchises.

(concerning foreign affairs): In addition to strengthening our military, as a member of the House Foreign Affairs Committee I am working to ensure that America’s foreign policy is guided by and rooted in the values and democratic principles that make America a truly exceptional place. This includes engaging other nations in free and fair trade, and giving U.S. businesses and manufacturers greater access to global markets. Roughly 95 percent of the world's marketplace is outside of the U.S.

From the Website (https://conorlamb.com/meet-conor/):

Conor Lamb is a Marine and former federal prosecutor who was elected on March 13, 2018 to represent Pennsylvania’s 18th congressional district in Congress, which includes parts of Allegheny, Westmoreland, Washington and Greene Counties in southwestern Pennsylvania.

As an Assistant U.S. Attorney from 2014-2017, Lamb led prosecutions against drug dealers and violent criminals and helped establish the Justice Department's Pittsburgh office as a national leader in the fight against the heroin epidemic, working to build partnerships between law enforcement and community members in places that have been hit hardest by the crisis.

Prior to his appointment as a federal prosecutor, Lamb was a Captain in the U.S. Marine Corps. He completed active duty service in 2013 and continues to serve as a Major in the Marine Corps Reserves.

He went to Pittsburgh Central Catholic High School (2002), and went to college and law school at the University of Pennsylvania (2006, 2009).

(concerning foreign affairs): The United States' long-term foreign policy interests are best served when the United States acts abroad as a peacemaker and an advocate of democracy and human rights. We must work now for peace in the Middle East, an end to the genocide in Sudan, and respect for human rights and the rule of law in places like Russia, China, Zimbabwe, and Kenya.
