Shenna Bellows grew up in Hancock, Maine, and is a graduate of Ellsworth High School and Middlebury College. She served as a Peace Corps Volunteer in Panama and AmeriCorps VISTA in Nashville, Tennessee, before returning to Maine as Executive Director of the American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU) of Maine. She also served for seven years on the Executive Committee for marriage equality in Maine and co-chaired a successful 2011 statewide campaign to restore same-day voter registration.

In 2016, Bellows was elected to the Maine State Senate, where she served two terms as Senate Chair of the Labor and Housing Committee and on the Judiciary Committee. She currently serves as Maine's 50th and first female Secretary of State, working to modernize government services and expand secure online voter registration.
